“Economists say terrorism is no longer the No. 1 threat to the economy: The subprime mortgage crisis is now the biggest worry.” The Financial Post

A DEBT CRISIS IS ROCKING THE GLOBAL ECONOMY:
BUT HOW MANY OF YOUR VIEWERS KNOW WHAT'S BEHIND IT?
IN DEBT WE TRUST WILL TELL THEM.

When Danny Schechter's timely film “America Before the Bubble Bursts” first played at festivals, CNN compared it to the horror movie Carrie suggesting this story is even scarier.

"Have we got the movie for you, noted the ORLAND WEEKLY: "IN DEBT WE TRUST" is a sort of economics lesson meets Supersize Me.... The facts Schechter sprinkles throughout are mind-boggling... Come to think of it, Schechter has created about as sexy a film as possible on the topic of consumer debt."

Now many of the fears and warnings in the film - first dismissed as “alarmist” have been realized - with many experts saying the worst is still to come. Economists in America say the USA is headed for a recession. Two million families face foreclosure and similar problems are popping up in Canada, the UK, Australia and South Africa to mention a few. Debt is no longer just a Third World problem!

The credit market has melted down. Central Bankers from the US, the EU Australia and Japan have put some $460 BILLION into shoring up the markets. A bank was sold in Germany. Banks in Asia including China have lost billions. No wonder the markets are panicking.

This is the story of modern times. IN DEBT WE TRUST has been seen in festivals worldwide. It has been on the air in the USA. It has been sold to 20 territories worldwide.

Everywhere people are asking how could this happen in America? Let award-winning American journalist Danny Schechter tell you—and your viewers

This is no longer just an American problem. We are all affected, maybe even INFECTED by the credit virus. IN DEBT WE TRUST explains why.
